

I, as a consumer, would like to see the number portability pass as soon as possible. I currently use Sprint as my provider and use it as a business line. I cannot get service in my home, where I need it most. I cannot afford to change numbers as I will lose business from this, but I need a company who has better coverage. There are millions of people in the same predicament as I am. The service providers of course are going to fight it because they will have to become more competitive with their services.
